DEATH KNELL OF THE TARIFF BILL SOUNDED

Move Afoot To Have Congress Kill Measure

from J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the republican national committee, immediately after he left the president. Nutt was amazed that Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the senatorial committee, had picked Kahn. He said there was no need for it.

There also is evidence that direct word from the president was sent to Moses demanding that he repudiate the announcement that Kahn will be the treasurer of the committee. But there is no change of Moses acceding to that demand. Kahn is an old friend of Moses and only accepted the post at the urgent request of the senator. Moreover, Kahn's selection was endorsed in advance by Claudius H. Huston, new chairman of the republican national committee.

Borah Undisturbed

If the old guardsmen in the G. O. P. are manipulating to capture the political scalps of western progressive senators for their fight against the high tariff provided for industrial concerns, they apparently have not disturbed Senator Borah of Idaho.

He indicated plainly that he would not be swerved in his fight on the tariff by any rumblings of that nature from other elements of his party. Borah said:

"We are going to write this tariff bill if we can in accordance with the pledges of the republican platform and then take care of the election."

By "we" Borah means the senators who believe that tariff increases should be confined to agricultural products. In Borah's opinion it is the western republican senators, who are carrying out the republican party's pledges, though a majority of democrats are going along with them.

CANNED MUSIC ON TRIAL

THIS is the case of Art vs. Mechanical Music in Theatres. The defendant stands accused before the American people of attempted corruption of musical appreciation and discouragement of musical education.

Theatres in many cities are offering synchronized mechanical music as a substitute for Real Music. If the theatre-going public accepts this vitiation of its entertainment program a deplorable decline in the Art of Music is inevitable.

Musical authorities know that the soul of the Art is lost in mechanization. It cannot be otherwise because the quality of music is dependent upon the present mood of the artist upon the human contact, without which the essence of intellectual stimulation and emotional rapture is lost.

Is Music Worth Saving?

No great volume of evidence is required to answer this question. Music is a well-nigh universally beloved art. From the beginning of history men have turned to musical expression to lighten the burdens of life, to make them happier. Aborigines, lowest in the scale of savagery, chant their songs to tribal Gods and play upon pipes and shark-skin drums. Musical development has kept pace with good taste and ethics throughout the ages, and has influenced the gentler nature of man more powerfully perhaps than any other factor.

Has it remained for the Great Age of Science to snub the Art by setting up in its place a pale and feeble shadow of itself?

Endurance Plane Makes Refueling Test

The Sealdsweet of Florida, in its bright new coat of paint, ready to try for the world's endurance flight record, completed the first refueling test over Tampa yesterday. Its engine will be taken down today and checked before the endurance flight is started.

Fliers Show Crowd Refueling Stunt In Test Flight

finds the altitude where the air is smoothest, where instead of having to fight for a position around a hose swaying and wobbling in all directions it will take up a short pendulum motion. The upper plane flies directly into the wind at a steady speed and the hose operator lets down the tube with a rope.

Propeller Is Menace

The endurance ship, its tanks empty and better capable of complete control, comes up from behind, slips the propeller past the hose as it sways to one side, and the contact man standing up in the rear cockpit grabs it with a short hook. The big trick is to get the hose past the whirring propeller.

"We sometimes manouver around half a dozen times and then break away after its in our hands," said R. W. Schrock, co-pilot in the endurance plane, when the first attempt proved unsuccessful yesterday.

"When we get to flying on the long grind we'll wait until a little later in the afternoon when the air is smoother, and there won't be so much hurry about doing it directly over the hangar. It will be real business then, not just a public exhibition, for we're going to get that record."

The endurance plane was piloted by Earl Steele and the refueling ship by "Boots" Dempsey, with Stanley Smith, chief mechanic, at the hose.

Earlier in the afternoon pilots Tom Livermore, Leonard Carothers and Dempsey gave an aerial circus with tailspins from high altitudes down close to the ground, chendelles, barrel rolls, Immelman turns, and falling leaves.

Chase Away Actors

One plane flew low over "Hell Harbor," which sent actors scurrying into the cabbage palms from the middle of a tense movie scene. This caused the loss of two hours of sound and film recording and brought a serious protest to the field by R. Wallace Davis, commissioner of public works, who was watching the movie production at the time and like the rest "took to the woods" as the giant Stinson plane swooped down around Morgan's tower.

The pilots, unaware that production of movies depend more on weather than Sunday holidays, thought they were giving a touch of realism to afternoon sightseers on the island, and regretted their aerial trespass.

Ivan Kester, engine expert sent from the Wright motor factory at Paterson, N. J., for complete check on the endurance engine, arrived at the field yesterday. After a test flight he said the motor was in good condition. It will be taken down this morning for final check of all moving parts. The long flight will start immediately after Kester has given his final O. K., Randall Norvell and Harry Murdock, owners of the equipment, said yesterday.

Kester said the work may be completed within two days, and he anticipated Thursday morning as the very latest time for starting the flight.

London Police Break Up Red Parade Against U. S.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(A.P.)—Communists and mounted police tonight had a sharp conflict in the vicinity of Victoria station.

Several hundred persons attempted to march from Trafalgar Square to the American embassy as a demonstration against alleged persecution of militant workers in general and the Gastonia, N. C., textile workers especially. They had prepared a resolution of protest to be left for the ambassador.

The police finally broke up the demonstration and arrested many of the participants.

The demonstrators carried red flags and banners with such inscription as "MacDonald gorges in Washington," and "textile workers starved and murdered in Gastonia." Many onlookers became involved in the fierce fighting.

Russia Executes 18 More Plotters Against Soviets

MOSCOW, Oct. 27.—(Universal Service.)—Eighteen further executions, with two priests and four church workers numbered among the victims, were announced today by the G. P. U., soviet political police.

This brings the total of persons executed in the last three days for alleged conspiracy against the soviet union to a total of 69.

At the village of Kimry, near Moscow, a priest, three assistants, and a kulak (rich peasant) were shot to death on a charge of organizing a counter revolution. The five men had formed a peasant protest demonstration against the village soviet's decision to demolish the local church.

The demonstrators, who gathered when their leaders were arrested, attacked the soviet agents and reinforcements had to be summoned. Thirteen of the peasants were arrested and eight of them promptly exiled.

At a village near Ivanovo a priest, a psalmist, and two kulaks were shot on the charge of organizing a peasant protest against a new land distribution order, whereby the land of the rich peasants was to be given to the poor.

Nine peasants were put to death in the Ivanovo, Leningrad and Briansk districts on charges of complicity in three separate murders of soviet officials.

On Friday a total of 51 persons, including 40 ringleaders of four alleged conspiracies to overthrow the soviet government, were executed by the G. P. U. The most sensational of these conspiracies was one operating under the leadership of former czarist army officers, with headquarters in an abandoned fortress near the Black sea.

Aero Club Members To Check Endurance Aviators at Night

Members of the Tampa Junior Aero club, seeking a way to help Tampa's refueling endurance flights, were assigned yesterday by Joseph Colhoun, official NAA observer, to stand watch at the field each night while the plane is in the air.

They already are arranging shifts of several hours each during which time they will be appointed deputy watchers for the National Aeronautic association. Under a new ruling sent to Colhoun refueling endurance planes must be kept under continuous observation by the official representative or someone appointed by him.

During the first eight days no watch will be necessary as the altitude record of the plane will be kept by a sealed barograph within the ship. The Junior Aero club also will assist by keeping a complete log of events which will be sent to the international association in Paris, a requirement if a new record is to be recognized in other countries.

The international records will include triplicate pictures of both ships and pilots, details of equipment, time of take-off and of all refueling contacts, complete weather data, details if the plane leaves sight of the original base, and other items.

Members of the club spent Saturday at the airport equipping the field with boundary posts for control of crowds anticipated in the event the endurance plane nears the world record. They are to serve during special events in parking cars and generally policing the field, in cooperation with county and city traffic officers.

MUSSOLINI SEES TROUBLE AHEAD FOR ALL EUROPE

Asks Nation's Support For Possible Struggle

ROME, Oct. 27.—(Universal Service)—Standing on the balcony of the Palazzo Venezia, Premier Mussolini today warned his black-shirted followers that the fascist regime faces "no easy times." His plea for renewed support was received with a tumultous demonstration as the 30,000 fascisti gathered below him pledged their loyalty.

Time and again Il Duce paused in his address to ask the black shirts whether they would follow him to the new heights his party sought in the defense and expansion of Italy. Each of his queries was answered with a tremendous "yes," as the seething crowd replied as one.

Climax To Celebration

The dictator's address came as a climax to the country's celebration of the seventh anniversary of the march on Rome. It followed a brilliant military review during which regiments of soldiers and legions of the militia passed before Mussolini, who stood dressed in the uniform of an honorary corporal.

"I am not promising you easy times," the dictator told his followers. "The eighth year of the fascist regime will be difficult, not only for us, but for all of Europe.

"But different from other countries, Italy is today as I have wished her to be; one army of citizens and of soldiers ready for works of peace and works of war.

Calls For Support

"If somebody would attempt to disturb the progress of our country's development, if somebody would try to break the superb unity of our national spirit—then would you answer to my call?"

A shout of affirmation rose from the assembled multitude and the dictator continued:

"Would you follow me to any goal? Would you follow me at every instant and despite adversity?"

Again came a roar of acclamation. "Allright," Mussolini replied, "I take your formidable 'yes' as the consent of the Italian nation, which is ready for every struggle and for every victory."

Job Buying Laid To Chicago Cops

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. — (Universal Service)—Policemen buying jobs, fixed scales for promotions, and many other startling disclosures are reported to have been made to State's Attorney Swanson.

The buying and selling of civil service jobs in Chicago, extending over a period of four years, are said to be included in the disclosures, and the consequent investigation promises to reach persons high in authority.

The information obtained shows that the fixed price of making a police captain in Chicago has been $10,000. One police lieutenant has paid $7500 for his position. The price for promotion to sergeants has been $1500.

Furthermore, charges of drunkenness and unbecoming conduct have been "fixed up" at prices of $100 and up. A fool-proof scheme for bringing offenders up before the grand jury has been evolved by State's Attorney Swanson.

Fingernails Dyed To Match Jewels Latest Paris Fad

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(A.P.)—A fad for coloring fingernails emerald and sapphire to match milady's jewels will be launched at a conservative old style house when new mid-season fashions are shown.

The style follows one for wearing blood red nails, adopted by many society women lately. The mode required that only a little of the fingernail be dyed carmine.

Fashion critics say emerald nails may become the rage, as emerald jewelry is having a tremendous vogue.

Lobbyist May Be Accused of Law-Breaking

to industries already prosperous. He added:

"Among the articles given substantial increases are brass, bronze, and copper products, hardware of all kinds, electrical apparatus and supplies, silver and plated ware, machine tools, firearms, cutlery, clocks, sewing machines and stamped and enameled ware.

"The facts show these increases in tariff rates are not needed to protect the industries named. They are doing very well now under the present rates. The rates in the senate bill will give them still more profits at the expense of every person who buys from them, because higher tariffs mean eventually higher prices."

Wants Sanity

The People's Lobby also issued a statement calling upon congress to adjourn in order to "enable the members to acquire higher morality and sanity for the regular session in December." The statement said:

"The investigation of lobbies up to date has emphasized the high moral turpitude of some members of congress and some government employes, and the higher mental turpitude of many other members of congress who don't know what is going on."

"For the first time in our nation's history, congress stopped an investigation to save the nation's face, because the prime minister of a labor government was visiting us."

When the lobby committee resumes sessions on Tuesday, it will delve further into the operations of the tariff lobby. Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, leading the industrialist lobby, will be recalled for further testimony. The committee also will probe the Southern Tariff association and the American Tariff league.

Plane Buenos Aires on Way To Pensacola for Repairs

Experts at Havana declared the ship unsafe for the continuance of flight to South America, following damage to the hull in a take off over a rough sea.

Capt. William S. Grooch, pilot, selected Miami as the port of entry and for refueling the gas tanks.

The plane will leave Miami shortly before noon tomorrow.

No Woman Dares

No one who expects to keep her place among the young and thoroughly alive women of today dares waste her time in unnecessary drudgery.

Is there anything that offers her greater relief from exhausting toil, speeds her tasks and gives more efficient service than a Hoover?

It outdoes every other cleaning method in effectiveness. It removes more dirt per minute than any other cleaner. And thus it cuts short her cleaning time and lightens her cleaning efforts. And, at the same time, it preserves her floor coverings by protecting them against the destructive action of embedded grit which ordinary cleaning fails to remove.

Let us give you a demonstration of The Hoover. There is a liberal allowance for your old cleaner. And the terms are most convenient—only $6.25 down.
