The good old days are on their way

By TED MAHAR of The Oregonian staff

Dave Jones, a KOIN radio announcer, will know in a few months whether he was the perpetrator of another of those noble failures of which life is so full or the rare perceiver of an idea whose time has come.

Jones and a couple of partners have taken over the Joy Theater in Tigard — scene of the great smut controversy a couple of years back - to

"We will be consistent with our policy. Some theaters run movies from the '50s and '60s and call it nostalgia," he said. "We will have the real thing and nothing else.

The time span is not the only limitation.

'Strictly entertainment'

"We will run strictly entertainment movies. No message stuff," Jones said. "I had a chance to book "The Grapes of Wrath,' but I turned it down. People can find social commentary and message pictures all over, but I feel it was good, clean, escapist entertainment that made the American movie industry what it was in its heyday. The whole family could go to the movies, forget all their troubles for a few hours and have a good time. I'm trying to do the same thing with exactly the same pictures.'

The theater will open Thursday, Dec. 13, with the 1935 "Mutiny on the Bounty," starring Clark Gable and Charles Laughton.

"I'll book movies by stars rather than directors. Directors aren't that important for this kind of movie as far as attracting the audience is concerned, but the stars are," he
