TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 10. — Next Year, 1924, being campaign year, it might be of interest to note the positions which will bevoted on in the Democratic primary in June. The race for governor is always of more interest and gamerally overshadows all other campaigns. Because of the fact that a governor annot succeed himself, changes in his office are more frequent than in ther administration.

Apparently all present administrative of itelals—secretary of state, ettorney general, comptroller, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction and etumissioner of agriculture—will be candidates for resolution except Procest Amos, comptrolley. Picture of Gypsy Life
The Paramount picture, "The Law of the Lawless," starring Dorothy Dalton showing at the Victory theater for the last day. Himny gypsy stories have been filmed but few in the colorful settings that distinguish this production. Miss Dalton is superb in her characterization of a hotheaded, spirited Tartar girl. She is ably supported by Theodore Kosloff, who plays the part of her cowardly Tartar lover, and Charles de Roche, the French chema star, in the role of Costa, a gypsy chief. As the love affair of these three untangles, one of the most interesting motion pictures ever seen at this theater is unfolded. In addition to the tro of leading players, the picture has an excellent supporting east which includes Tully Marshall, in a featured role, Fred Huntley and Margaret Loomis.
