Mrs. T. J. Mixson Entertains for Hyman-Cone Party

Miss Virgie Hyman, her fiance, Edward Elbert Cone, and members of their bridal party were entertained at a formal dinner last night at the home of Mrs. T. J. Mixson, 2615 Sunset drive.

A graceful arrangement of yellow and peach gladioli centered the lace cloth on the dining table. Yellow candles in silver sticks lighted the table where all except two places were marked by dainty hand-painted place cards. Places of the two honor guests were designated by tiny bride and bridegroom dolls. Miss Hyman received a gift from the hostess.

Others present were Miss Gertrude Price, Miss Virginia Anderson, Mrs. E. E. Cone, Miss Maude Cone, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Medard, the Rev. and Mrs. George Hyman, Seaborn Short and Cely Albury.

Miss Maude Cone will entertain Saturday morning with a breakfast at the Puritan hotel for Miss Hyman.

Bride of Tampan

MRS. NORMAN J. PILKINGTON
formerly Miss Helen Claire Green, who was married Sunday.

Miss Helen Green, N. J. Pilkington Wed

Miss Helen Claire Green and Norman J. Pilkington were married at the parsonage of the Palm Avenue Baptist church Sunday by the Rev. A. M. Bennett. Only a few friends and relatives were present.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Audrey Meeks, wore an afternoon dress of dark blue crepe with accessories to match.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for a bridal trip to Georgia and South Carolina. Upon their return they will make their home in Tampa.

Mrs. Pilkington is the daughter of Mrs. S. F. Fredenburg, 1202½ Platt street. She is a native of Lakeland where she was graduated from the high school. She attended Southern college where she was a member of the Nu Tau Beta sorority. She came to Tampa about a year ago. She is an active member of the Palm Avenue Baptist church and is a teacher in the young people's department.

Mr. Pilkington is a native of Canada. He lived in Chicago for a number of years, coming to Florida about 12 years ago.

P.-T. A. Notes

More than 125 members of the Buffalo Avenue Parent-Teacher association attended the meeting yesterday afternoon. Mrs. F. M. Lynch and Mrs. Carl Brown gave a medley of old songs. Mrs. Bessie Benzinger's 1-A room received the attendance prize for the lower grades and Miss Mattie Young's 4-B room won the prize for the higher grades. Six members of the P.-T. A. will attend the lunch room of instruction at Hillsborough high school the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Nellie O'Bierne, of the county probation office, in her talk to the Seminole Heights Parent-Teacher association yesterday said her 20 years of social service work convinced her that the principal safeguards of the morals of a child are the examples of parents and the general atmosphere of a good home, which includes good physical and economic conditions as well as a moral tone. The school and the church are also potent means toward child welfare, the records showing that none of the delinquents were regular attendants of church or Sunday school, she said.

Mrs. Dale Jackson sang "Morning," accompanied by Mrs. Bertram Johnston. Mrs. Tittsworth, program chairman, introduced Miss Mary A. Stennis, who talked about the proper diet for children. She said that her observation in 10 school lunch rooms this week led her to the conclusion that Tampa school children know little or nothing of the food value of Florida's principal food products, green vegetables, milk and oranges. If every person used one pint of real orange juice daily, she said, bad teeth and bone conditions would be prevented, and the general improvement in health would be so great that the communicable diseases would be cut down.

Mrs. Theo Sommerkamp's room won the picture as a permanent possession and the record for the attendance in the lower grades was made by Miss Johnnie Parrish. The welfare committee reported sending baskets of food for Thanksgiving to the Children's home, the Old People's home and to several families in the school.

Milton W. Carothers, supervising principal of city schools, yesterday urged members of the Henry Mitchell Parent-Teacher association to pay more attention to the public school situation and especially impending legislation. Closer contact between parents and schools as a means of arousing interest was advocated by Mr. Carothers.

A program of music and readings was presented at the meeting under the direction of Mrs. John M. Burnette, music chairman. Pupils of the school took part and Miss Dorothy Cooper gave a reading. Mrs. C. Verne Klintworth gave several musical numbers. A meeting of the parent singers was announced for Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A practice meeting also will be held Dec. 8 at the home of M. L. Price.

GARDEN CIRCLE TO MEET

Riverside circle of the Tampa Garden club will meet this morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. E. Peagler, 2701 Ridgewood avenue.

Women's Clubs State Leader Is Visitor Here

Mrs. William L. Wilson, of Panama City, president of the Florida state federation of women's clubs, was in Tampa for a brief visit yesterday after attending a meeting of section 12 at Bradenton. From Tampa she went to St. Petersburg, and caught a train last night for Miami, to attend the Miami sectional meeting today.

"Our general state meeting at Pensacola does not take place until the spring, but there is everywhere over Florida a decided interest in it and in club activities," Mrs. Wilson said. "I have found that the clubs and the members themselves feel that we have a serious mission, that there are many questions closely related to our work in which they are vitally concerned, not only for themselves but for their communities. During the winter we find many tourists, who comes to Florida each year, anxious to know of our progress, for back home they are federated members and they like to exchange ideas, to tell us how it has been with them and to find some of the particular problems connected with the club program in this state."

Always an optimist, long associated with federation activities, and constantly on the go since her election as state president, Mrs. Wilson admits that she finds a great deal of personal pleasure in getting over the state for the various meetings and in getting first hand opinions from the membership.

"There is not a dull moment," she said, "I love the work. I love to meet and talk with our members and the officers of the clubs who are doing a splendid work and who are anxious to get new members and to have everybody intensely interested in it. They are a splendid body of women and without their fine help and cooperation these long jump trips which you say must tire a woman, might do that. My one regret when I meet to talk over club affairs in the various cities is that I cannot stay for a longer visit."

ENTERTAIN AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. George Ennis entertained several friends at their home at a turkey dinner. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Tyner, Mr. and Mrs. J. McElwreath and Miss Loretta Chase.

Dorothy Dix's Corner

A GREAT deal is being said nowadays about the discontent of wives. Even those fortunate ladies who have been lucky enough to get technically good husbands, that is, husbands who are kind and faithful and good providers, are not down on their knees thanking Heaven for their blessings. They are grumbling because what they have doesn't quite fill the bill.

Marriage appears no longer to be a career in which a woman can absorb herself and be happy ever after, with no thought beyond her family and the four walls of her home. Nearly every wife wants to do something else besides being married and being a housekeeper and wife and mother. She frankly admits that she is bored with domesticity and wants something with more thrill in it than cooking and darning socks and wiping little noses.

So we have the modern spectacle of innumerable women, who do not need to be money earners, forsaking their homes for business offices, turning over the sacred rite of homemaking to hirelings and employing servants and governesses to rear their children.

This bodes no good to marriage as an institution, nor to the home itself, nor to the husband, nor to children. The home is built upon shifting sands, whose foundation stones are not cemented together by the wife's hands. The most gifted chef, the most accomplished butler, the most artistic interior decorator cannot turn a house into a home as can the woman who loves it and whose heart interest is centered in it. Making a real home has to be a labor of love. It can't be done with scab labor. Nor can any woman make a real home whose ambitions are set on making a success of a profession, or a gift shop, instead of bread and pies.

Nor can anybody measure the loss of the children deprived of the daily and hourly association with their mother, and the more intelligent she is, the more gifted, the more intuitive, the greater their deprivation. Children need more than being kept clean, and being scientifically fed and sent to prep schools. They need the love and tenderness and understanding, the divine patience that only a mother can give, and the children who miss this have been defrauded of something that can never be made up to them. There is no substitute for a real mother in this world.

If women are discontented with the domestic life, it is mainly men's fault, because they have done so little to make it attractive to their wives. To begin with they have made wifehood a job without a pay envelope. The work of the wife and mother is the only labor left in the world that is done for one's board and clothes. And no human being can be very keen about working 12 or 14 hours a day at a task for which they never receive a penny as their just hire.

Then few husbands ever manifest any active interest, to say nothing of enthusiasm, in their wives tasks. Still less do they give them three cheers when they accomplish a difficult feat. Most husbands merely growl, without looking up from their papers, when their wives try to discuss household affairs with them. Most husbands gobble down the dinner their wives have spent hours in preparing without a comment, unless it be to find fault with some dish. Most husbands raise ructions if the bills are big, but make no comment when their wives have pinched every penny.

Reams of advice have been written to wives about how to keep their husbands nailed to their own firesides, but men are sadly in need of counsel now about how to keep their wives at home, for wives no longer stay put as a matter of course. Most of them are reaching out for their hats and have an eye on some job downtown.

So if husbands wish to keep their wives satisfied they must do as women have done, make a conscious effort to keep their wives interested and keep them stimulated with praise. They must be companionable and sympathetic and make their wives feel that making a home is the best and most profitable career that any woman can espouse.

Catholic Woman's Club Has Interesting Program

A varied program of music, dances and readings was given at the meeting of the Catholic Woman's club yesterday at the clubhouse on Davis Islands.

Miss Mildred Sellers, accompanied by Mrs. Bessie Sellers on the piano, gave a toe dance and a Russian dance in costume. Carmelina Lucido sang an aria from "La Traviata," accompanied by Miss Catherine Ficcio, and "Annie Laurie." Miss Mary McGraw, recent graduate of the state college for women, played a piano solo, "Novelette in F," by Schumann, and Miss Evelyn Evans told the story of the birth of Christ.

Tea and cakes were served by the hostesses, Mrs. S. F. Goodrich and Mrs. M. B. Walicki, assisted by Mrs. R. Toffaleti, Mrs. M. Moran, Mrs. G. P. Coleman and Miss Lillian Koelker. Mrs. G. F. Corrigan was chairman for the day.

The meeting Dec. 16 will be gift day for the Mary Help of Christians orphanage. Boys of the schools will be guests of the club and members will take gifts for them. Mrs. W. C. Capo will be chairman for the day.

MISS 1931 WILL USE ONE OF THESE THREE NEW FACE POWDERS

Beauty Experts Predict Increasing Popularity For New Face Powder Style

"Today's girl—and her mother and her sisters and her cousins and her aunts who keep as up-to-date as she is—rejoice that they can find a powder they know will beautify their own type of skin," beauty experts report.

For Plough has created three different face powders—one for oily skin, one for dry skin, one for normal skin.

You'll be right in step with the newest style when you dip your puff into your own Plough Powder and smooth it on your skin!

"Here," you'll say to yourself, "is exactly what I've always wanted.... a powder that goes on my skin as if it belongs there and makes my complexion smoother, clearer, finer-textured than ever before!" And then you have still another thrill in store when you see this marvelous new smoothness and beauty last for hours! For your own Plough Powder is made to cling....made to keep your type of skin lovely all day long!

If your skin is oily, choose heavy texture Plough's "Incense of Flowers" Face Powder, in the oval box, 75c.

If your skin is dry, choose light texture Plough's "Favorite Bouquet" Face Powder, in the square box, 30c.

If your skin is normal, choose medium texture Plough's "Exquisite" Face Powder, in round box, 50c.

Plough's Three Face Powders come in white, flesh, pink, brunette and sun-tan tints. They are exceedingly popular because of their fine quality, and because women realize it's smart to be thrifty. Reasonably priced wherever beauty creations are sold.
