

SENTENCED TO HANG.

Fate of Three of the Oliphant Train Robbers

Newport, Ark., Feb. 5.—Jim Wyrick, Tom Brady and Albert Mansker, three of the Oliphant train robbers, were this afternoon sentenced to be hanged April 6 next, having been found guilty of the murder of Conductor W. P. McNally. The case of George Padgett, the fourth man indicted and who turned state's evidence, was continued until the next term of court.