

TULSA DRAWS REALTOR

Business Prospects Too Much for Fort Smith Man; Moving Here.

Tulsa has siren charms that occasionally are too much for its visitors.

When the Fort Smith realtors came to Tulsa a few weeks ago to be the guests of the Tulsa Real Estate Exchange one of their number, J. E. Mansker, was especially interested in the wonder city that he was seeing for the first time. Back in Fort Smith, the Tulsa skyline and the Tulsa down-town streets with their constant seething crowds and the Tulsa residential districts with their palatial homes and the Tulsa offices with their volume of business kept coming up in his mental vision. Finally it became too much for him and yesterday he arrived here to look over the ground with a view to locating here. Mansker is with one of the largest real estate firms in Fort Smith and plans to affiliate with one of the Tulsa firms for the present.